RE: MB Docket No. 10-56

Dear Chairman Genachowski:

The Atlanta Urban League (AUL) is an organization with a long and proud history of providing African Americans and other minorities workforce development services and programs in the areas of recruitment, training, retention and career advancement.

AUL works closely with the Atlanta business community to achieve success for the individuals and businesses we serve. We are blessed to have wonderful partners in seeing this through. One such partner is Comcast Corporation.

Commitment to diversity is something many companies tout but do not actively pursue. That can certainly not be said of Comcast. It recognizes the importance of reflecting diversity in its workforce all the way up to its executive ranks. Furthermore, Comcast sees the positives in providing workforce training to the minority community of Atlanta, knowing that education and training are key to advancement, not just of individuals but of our broader community. To that end, Comcast supports our Education Training and Workforce Development programs, providing GED preparation and additional academic training to those who need it.

We would be remiss if we did not write to inform you of our longstanding partnership with Comcast and our strong feeling that Comcast is an honorable and well-intentioned member of the Atlanta community. I truly hope you reflect on all of the opportunity Comcast has provided, and will most certainly continue to provide, to our brothers and sisters as you consider its proposed business partnership with NBC Universal.

Sincerely,

Manly a Fluke Johnson
